PROFILE

Aspiring Product Designer with a background in Computer Science, focused on solving real-world problems through thoughtful digital experiences. Experienced across the end-to-end design process — researching user needs, mapping journeys, and building wireframes and interactive prototypes — with a technical foundation that supports close collaboration with developers.

EDUCATION

Computer Science Engineering, Data Science Specialization — University of Mumbai (June 2023 – June 2027)

Relevant coursework: Data Structures & Algorithms, Database Management, Web Development, Machine Learning, AI

PROJECTS

CuraNet — Hospital & Emergency Management System

Real-time hospital management web app with bed tracking, OPD queues, blood bank management, inventory monitoring and emergency response. Designed role-based dashboards (patient, doctor, admin) to improve visibility, coordination and decision-making. Built responsive React dashboards with live updates for operational visibility.

Traffic Congestion Prediction System

Web-based platform predicting traffic congestion using historical data, live feeds and weather reports. Built interactive dashboards with real-time monitoring, predictive analytics, alerts and alternate route suggestions to optimize commuting and assist city authorities.

PerformAce — Performance Management & Tracking System

Python application with a Tkinter GUI to consolidate and track individual performance metrics, automate event notifications, and generate reports. Integrated Matplotlib for data visualization, TkCalendar for scheduling, and MySQL for centralized data management.
